

Dear Parents of Room 12,

Hi! My name is Sarah Watkins and I am student teaching in your child' s classroom! I am so excited to be learning all about teaching from the wonderful Mr. Rudolph and your wonderful little humans. Room 12 has a classroom culture of respect, safety and discovery that is inspiring and fun to be a part of every day.

I am a student at Seattle Pacific University and will be graduating in June with a Masters in Teaching, with endorsements to teach elementary education and English Language Learners. I am a proud mama of a dog (a pug) named Tim Riggins, I love to read and watch TV, and I have a bit of an addiction to coffee (an unfortunate result of grad school). I also speak and read Spanish, so please feel free to communicate with me in Spanish when needed.

Learning has been a lifelong passion of mine, and I have always known I wanted to pass that love on as a teacher. Helping kids to unlock their own understanding and explore the world around them is an exhilarating process, and I am so eager, and honored, to be experiencing it with your kiddos. They have already taught me many lessons, and I look forward to countless more throughout the next 12 weeks.

I look forward to meeting all of you. Please feel free to reach out if you have any questions or concerns. Thank you so much for letting me into your child' s world. It is such an important and fun place to be!

Sincerely,

Sarah Watkins
